

Day by Day

I wish I knew what MP Ahmed Al-Saadoun wants. Some people in Kuwait are in need of housing while others, such as businessmen, look for a place to build warehouses. And for this reason the government was under pressure to release the land which was in its possession and keeping in mind the people's needs the government adhered to their wishes.

However, something else was playing on Al-Saadoun's mind and he said it was a ploy to steal state property.

Again when the issue of developing northern oilfields was being discussed those days, Al-Saadoun said people were trying to embezzle public funds in the name of development.

I don't know what exactly Al-Saadoun wants to achieve. I believe it is better to hand over to Al-Saadoun the leadership of the country and wait and see what he does. Maybe then we will know what he wants. I am afraid he will turn the whole thing upside down... but still I think he will maintain his way of looking at things.
